

Jasmin Bambur - Winter Park, Colorado

On January 13, 2000 while driving home, Jas fell asleep at the wheel and hit a guardrail and was given a small chance to survive. After learning he could no longer use his legs he decided to fight for the life he always dreamed of regardless of the obstacles. In 2010, Jasmin was the 1st Serbian to compete in the Winter Paralympics. Several years ago he decided to part ways with Serbia and became a US Citizen. Jas is now on the US Adaptive Ski Team, competed in the 2014 Sochi Games the 2018 Pyeongchang Winter Paralympics.
